ANALYST NOTE

Hera local LLM

The strategy generated a 10.70% return, but the sample size of only two trades renders the 0.87 Sharpe ratio statistically insignificant. With a 50.0% win rate, the results likely reflect random variance rather than genuine edge. The 11.50% maximum drawdown is concerning relative to the modest gains, indicating poor risk-adjusted performance in this short window. To validate the model, we must execute a significantly longer backtest period to establish statistical confidence before considering live deployment.
